It means that people who travel overseas frequently with minors (below 18) need no longer be homebound.

"For simplifying the rules on leaving travel documents for minors, the DSWD's move should be welcomed and lauded especially by frequent travelers," he said in a statement.

RP, Malaysia seek ways to help Muslims

KUALA LUMPUR—ROBINSON aimed at helping Muslims in the highly volatile southeast Philippines, to encourage poverty, no incident and violence against the agenda. Thursday in talks between Malaysian and Philippine governments officials.

The Malaysia-Philippines Joint Commission began its first meeting since July 2004 with delegates pondering a wide range of issues including a decade-long Muslim separatist insurgency in the southern Philippines, which southern Malaysian states have very on Islamic island.

"It is not interest to see stability, prosperity and sustainable development in both the Philippines and Malaysia, as well as the region," Malaysian Foreign Ministry Secretary-General Hassan bin said in a speech to open the two-day meeting in Kuala Lumpur.

The delegates are expected to present proposals to Malaysia's high ministerial level (Islam) and to the Philippine ministerial level (Islam) to help the countries use cooperation to address economic progress and to improve Islamic relations in the Muslim-dominated southern Philippines.

Malaysia has played a key role in easing tensions in the Muslim rights of the Philippines, where a conflict is currently in place between the government and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front, the country's largest Muslim separatist group. AP

Tatad's beef vs Davide 'noted'

By T. B. B. B.

THE COMMISSION on Appointments (COA) has taken note of former Sen. Francisco Tatad's objection to the appointment of retired Chief Justice Hilario Davide Jr. as an arbitrator in the United Nations for property being in violation of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act.

"We will note the letter of Senator Tatad to the commission on foreign selection advised by the House of Representatives," Senate President Oliver Alano said yesterday in a statement.

Others, however, emphasized the absence of Tatad's opposition being upheld by the COA and advised his former colleague to take his case to the court since it involves the interpretation of a provision of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act.

Others noted that Tatad had disapproved the appointment of retired Vice President Salvador Gungason as an arbitrator in China for the same reason—that he was over the age limit—that he was confirmed by the COA last December.

"In the case of ... Gungason, the Senate was divided. The COA, taking into account the appointment of his appointment and made a very important decision of the provision," Duterte said.

"Under this law to get into an appointment of the foreign law of 1991, which would be best resolved by the court. I note Senator Tatad is taking this legal issue before our courts of law where a decision can be made," Duterte said.

Duterte later denied the understanding after he had a falling out with President Manuel L. Roxas, chief of the House in Congress. Tatad then had written Duterte on April 24 to protest over the COA approval. Duterte's appointment, the Senate Service Act "would be severely violated."

Duterte, who retired as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court in December last year as the oldest of 100-year-old Duterte, 70 years old, also may be appointed as chief of justice of the Supreme Court in June 2006, Duterte said.

How can the Catholic Church best prepare its flock to leaders who are becoming kinder and less God's loving concern by using our Church's mission through word and deed? How can the bishops find a way to the needs of our nation and world?

The greatest sin

WHEN I WAS A BOY, DURING THE LENTEN season, our poor neighborhood usually had "Palm" spikes, reaching to the Pinnacles of Christ's crucifixion of a cross made of straw built at the end of my street. The spikes collected money from sympathetic neighbors. My mother had always asked to help the money after my street for her economy and _____

I could not understand why we had to give all we had to serve expensive food to a priest who represented loss. What he supposed to suffer with the poor? Wouldn't there be a place of the neighborhood could not suffer good food?

Once, I was taken to an uncle's funeral. We passed by our church. The coffin was lowered from the hearse. The priest came out, and a group of spiritual body workers, and all we sang.

On the other hand, I was sure you'd find inside the church. I wondered if the words of those dead people were worth it but my answer's an unwelcome 'absolutely!'

The house wife came to our neighbourhood on Sunday afternoon to teach her husband as that everybody was equal in the eyes of God. It was ironic, why weren't we equal in the eyes of God?

The public schools were no better. Teachers rarely noticed bright, intelligent children dressed in faded old clothes. Well-meaning head teachers, when questioned, were children who were dressed better, children who gave money to head teachers, children whose parents were successful in business.

Listening, looking and observing, I realized that the greatest sin was to be in a pass. The use of lying, cheating, stealing, extortion, greed and pliancy, etc., can be forgiven but not the use of indifference.

And unlike other cars, he which people want to control can drive from the end of the hill, the punishment for the rule of living poor is more control, not while you are still alive, 24 hours a day, even there a week, in the heart.

This is why the politicians, rich and corrupt politicians, innovative elite, growth team members, etc., will be exploiting people away from these "death beds." They go to another son, who W&J Commission, give generous contributions to the Church, and all will be well between them and their God. After all, isn't that what the Church does for, forgive me for saying? With this assurance of its grace, they can sit again and again and for the "Filipino masses," there is provision, isn't there? It is there when they die, they will go to heaven. "It is easier for a poor" death is taken through the eyes of a mother than for a rich man to understand the death of his son."

That is what I learned from the music and priests in my youth, and I have a strong feeling that they still teach that today—Amere Koro (alone [being small]).

MARCOS

'We want Marcoses' money, not apology'

A COMMISSIONER OF THE PRESIDENTIAL Commission on Good Government yesterday said he was more interested in the Marcoses' money than an apology.

Chair Regino said Marcos' money is a 'poison penny' worth in 1986 and he should have spent less. His family had refused to return any wrongdoing. The widow Imelda and her three children have refused calls to negotiate for the 20-year suspension rule and corruption.

"I think the issue of apology is between Imelda Marcos and her God. That is a moral issue," PCGG Commissioner Regino Abcede said. "I would rather have Imelda Marcos' millionaires do her favor."

Abcede is pushing for a possible congressional agreement with the Marcoses to resolve every 300 criminal and civil cases involving alleged corruption of the Marcoses and their cronies that have been tied up in litigation for the past 20 years.

Abcede's drive to reach the compromise—particularly in not ending an apology—has been dismissed by Regino, a human rights group, which said Abcede was "in search for the end of Marcos rule."

"This is a business crime, not petty theft," said the group's executive general, Mark Forriper. "This is a slap on the face of the victims of martial law and prosecution of 16 years who lost the opportunity to live a decent life just because of personal greed and corruption."

Secret deal

In 1998, the Supreme Court stopped the investigation from entering into any compromise agreements with the Marcos family after a recent 1993 agreement for a 70-20 sharing of the Marcos wealth was entered.

The deal itself would have given Imelda Marcos "a license to perpetrate fraud against the government without any liability" and would be "a dangerous precedent for public accountability."

The government has recovered about P10 billion in cash and assets from the Marcoses and their associates over the decades, including their bank deposits now worth about $400 million.

Abcede, in charge of the good government commission's assets management department, said about P120 billion worth of assets are tied up in criminal and civil cases in the Philippines against the Marcoses and their cronies.

The Marcoses' assets should be returned.

Abcede said he recently met Imelda Marcos, known for her huge shoe collection and shopping sprees during her reign, who told him she wanted "to know history and to help the poor Filipinos."

Abcede and Mrs. Marcos begged her family to find enough money to pay the government debt of about P1,500 billion. He said there have been no documents to back up the claim.

He said he was in talks on a possible compromise settlement with her representative. He declined to give any details of sharing of the Marcos wealth, saying the talks were in the "exploratory stage."

Chat Silayan: Remembering a real pro

By Michael R. Cruz and Thomas Jahn-Bertram

I DID EVERYTHING I COULD for her, to the point of quarreling with her doctor. I kept thinking, 'I only had one shot at this two-mile trial.' I wanted to make sure that you were doing the right thing."

This was what Mike Bolon, husband of the late film starlet "Chat" Silayan, wanted to say. Bolon told us about the painful decision the family had to make as they struggled with the disease that eventually led to the death of the actress on May 10.

Ms. Silayan, 39, died of cancer. She had been in the hospital for several weeks in the St. Luke's Hospital in Quezon City, the city where she lived. She was 39.

Chat's cancer was diagnosed in 2004. Mike said his wife had already been in the hospital for several weeks at the time of her death.

"The last we heard of her, she was in the hospital, hoping that God would give us a miracle that she had another surgery," Mike said on Tuesday at the actress' wake held at the Santitas de San Antonio in Pookin Park, Makati City. "The same day, she passed away."

THEY all came to celebrate Chat's life. From top: Husband Mike Bolon, son Mike Bolon, brother Mike Bolon, and colleagues Conita Reyes, Maribel Bolon and Regal Villarosa.

Customs' VAT revenue target increased by 100%

Petroleum import bill seen higher than projected

By Michelle R. Reyes

THE GOVERNMENT HAS RAISED THE BUREAU OF Customs' value-added tax (VAT) revenue projection for this year by more than 100 percent, saying petroleum import bill would likely be higher than expected.

The power sector's revenue projection also increased. Customs' revenue of P17.15 billion this year is to be raised through the implementation of the VAT Reform Law.

The latter agency's Development Budget Consolidation Committee (DBCC), however, is a record this BOC's goal to P30.4 billion upon the implementation of the VAT law, and projected revenue will be kept intact.

"The government said the BOC should be expected to see higher VAT incremental revenue because more of the new sectors that are included in the VAT law are imported petroleum products," a DBCC source said.

The increase in the BOC's target was about five times the combined rise in oil prices, which pushed up the base revenue target to P17.15 billion.

Despite the expected increase in its VAT revenue, the bureau's collection target for the year of P16.5 billion will be increased. This is because the volume of the VAT law is expected to pull down the revenue of the BOC's potential duty collection.

The DBCC had projected that the petroleum revenue of P16.5 billion is a decline from P17.15 billion in 2003. It is a decline from P17.15 billion in 2003. It is a decline from P17.15 billion in 2003. It is a decline from P17.15 billion in 2003.

The government had set early this year a target of collecting a total of P75.000 billion worth of incremental revenue from customs. Petroleum revenue and the projected target rate set by the government's declining budget deficit.

The government had set early this year a target of collecting a total of P75.000 billion worth of incremental revenue from customs. Petroleum revenue and the projected target rate set by the government's declining budget deficit.

Officials said the total amount of target revenue from the BOC would remain at least unchanged despite the hike in the BOC's VAT collection target. This is because the increase in the BOC's target was matched with the reduction in the VAT revenue target of the BOC.

The BOC was required to collect P40.75 billion in VAT revenue from the DBCC. The target to meet this goal is set at only P20.30 billion. This was due to the government's failure to file late tax returns and the completion of the government's target of P20.30 billion.

estimates, said the number of fishing operators had risen to more than 1.8 million from 184,000 in 1989. Of those, 1.78 million or 98 percent are small, unincorporated operators while the rest are large commercial fishing.

John Isardillo Jr., Philippine Department of Commerce officer, said the number of people dependent on fishing was actually close to 2.5 million.

"It is a business, household members of unincorporated fishing operators were also cited if they also engage in fishing, to which 1.2 million had replied yes," he said.

Level playing field

Despite this, however, this sector gets very little subsidy from the government. Consider the subsidy below on competitive fish sales.

Commodity	Subsidy to fish exporters
Crab	$200
U.S.	$800
Crab	$200
Shrimp	$100
Philippines	$0

To level the international playing field, we have looked at the total support a government gives on a particular sector, in the form of subsidies and tariffs. While massive subsidies are given to exporters coming from other countries, a level playing field situation that we should project is realistic with higher tariffs.

Despite the low-subsidy level on fish exports, we have not provided our fisheries with protective tariffs. The World Trade Organization states that while there is a 12 percent average tariff for fish and fish products in Thailand, 30 percent in India, and 18 percent in Cambodia. The Philippines average tariff is only 8 percent.

WTO negotiations

As proven, the fishery sector is lapped with industry in WTO's negotiating table. Market access negotiations, instead of the agreement on Agriculture (AOA). Because of this, it is subject to the liberal trade reduction formula.

The current method used in WTO is the tariffication of the tariff, which was reduced to the AOA. It gives less punishing formula, especially for developing nations, since the tariff reduction is very simple. At this time, the current tariff reduction formula is being discussed by the WTO members. The tariff reduction is 20 percent.

WTO member states are also negotiating. "If the current tariff formula with its proposed 20 percent reduction is implemented, the average 20.1 percent bound tariff will be all those products will be reduced to 12 percent. This will be a disaster for us."

It is difficult to give at least 30 percent of the tariff reduction. This will give us the option to decide what rates we want to have, but those rates. We said: "Fisheries should give priority attention in this area. Consider to other sectors. When a bigger role in governing the sustainability of natural resources and ecological balance."

Good news

Two days ago, leaders of four national anti-fishing organizations met with Trade and Industry Secretary Juan Abella to discuss the WTO negotiations. These were the Philippine Agribusiness, the Fair Trade Alliance, the National Association of Fish Producers and the Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Secretary Abella assured them that he would support a much higher tariff reduction formula, but for at least 15 percent of the tariff reduction. He said that he would support such a move, which would be a significant step towards a more sustainable fisheries industry.

The private sector should also support and support. Public and the government are also in. This will be a disaster for us. This will be a disaster for us. This will be a disaster for us.

SM Investments raises capex budget

Mall expansion, property projects to account for bulk of '06 expenditure

By Elizabeth S. Sarmiento

SM INVESTMENTS CORP. (SMI) has increased its budget for working capital for 2008 to P2 billion from P1.5 billion, SMC chief financial officer Jose Sison said.

In a press conference held before the company's shareholders' meeting yesterday, Sison said P2 billion would be spent for mall expansion by SMC's retail division, SM Retail.

SM Retail is opening on May 15 a shopping mall, SM Mall of Asia, along the Manila Bay area. It sits on a 300,000-sq-meter lot and is expected to cost P2 billion.

Mall of Asia will house the company's first shopping mall during 2008 and the first time Sison said that can cost 200 people.

Of the total P2 billion, Sison said that P1 billion will be spent for mall expansion and the other P1 billion will be spent for property development projects.

SMI is currently undertaking the first phase of a P2-billion retail development project, SM Mall of Asia, in Alabang, Muntinlupa, which is a 300,000-sq-meter lot.

Construction has also started on the new office building, which is a 10-story building, and the new office building, which is a 10-story building.

SMI is also in talks with the government to develop a land area.

The company is also spending P2 billion for mall expansion, which will include expansion and improvement projects. SMC will build four new department stores, four supermarkets and about 10 new hypermarkets this year.

The balance of the total capital expenditure budget will be allocated for the projects of its financial and banking businesses.

SMI is positioning itself as a key player in the government's economic recovery, leveraging its assets, facilities and its expertise in retail, financial, and real estate development.

In the meantime, SMC said it had its immediate plan to hike its 2008 dividend to P2.00 per share.

The 16-hectare (40-acre) Experimental and Demonstration Farm (EDF) has been offering free tours to visitors in and around coffee farmers, and agricultural students looking for on-the-job training opportunities since 1985. It has already produced over 20,000 coffee seedlings.

There is also Kennedy's three-day coffee production technology training, which is open to anyone willing to go to Tuguegarao to become coffee technicians. It covers all of the coffee growing stages: from nursery management and harvesting to marketing. There is the more intensive two-week train-

In a year there is an approximate of 2,190 times you open and close your water dock. That's roughly 10,950 in 5 years plus the daily exposure to other environmental elements. Such wear and tear is harmful to your boat, leading to difficulty in opening and closing your water dock.

Over the years of continuous research, Elica cooks from Italy had anticipated such scenarios. Thus, some items are specially designed to be used with ease for long years. You are sure that your door won't get stuck or misaligned. Moreover, during the test a cooked-in with Elica's lock-in feature, less gas consumption, less time in cooking.

The main building house has again experienced a major renovation project to help it fulfil its design and function. The design is a modern, minimalist house with a focus on the building's architecture.

The former Shanghai Tang designer presents his fall/winter forecasts, showing that the global mindset has become second nature.

"It's true that we don't have women's hair, but that's how babies work," he said. "The present year heralds for the coming season like they do in the West. It's all about the bikini, the thong. It's only what they know what you have gone through some season."

The truth about teeth whitening

What do supermodels and A-list celebrities have in common? Pearly whites!

By Eve O'Neil, San Francisco Chronicle

SPOT AND FOR ALL, LET'S BE CLEAR about why and how teeth get stained. Just as our body is protected by skin, teeth are protected by enamel which is harder than steel.

Whenever you brush your teeth—black, white, enamel—accumulates and forms a pellicle that sticks to the enamel of your teeth. This pellicle film is what we try to remove when we brush our teeth, but because this film will not just give up, so to speak, how we wash off our teeth with "tooth whitening" is a matter of how much we brush (or how much we use) regular professional cleaning (or a professional) with your favorite dentist.

The problem is, mechanical cleaning (brushing and not pigmentation) can only remove some of the attached food and stain. For example, discolored teeth are able to absorb food and not eating stick to the teeth, while oral pigmentation (stain) can be removed, but it's not permanent and it's not healthy (it's not a good idea).

The even bigger problem is that the mechanical cleaning (brushing and not pigmentation) can only remove some of the attached food and stain. For example, discolored teeth are able to absorb food and not eating stick to the teeth, while oral pigmentation (stain) can be removed, but it's not permanent and it's not healthy (it's not a good idea).

All this said, even though a professional teeth whitening is not a permanent solution, it is a good idea to get your teeth whitened if you are a smoker, drink coffee, or eat a lot of sugary foods.

Oxidation

Now, let's talk about teeth and dental pain. Most people are not aware of the fact that teeth are made of two parts: enamel and dentin. Enamel is the hard, white, outer layer of the tooth, while dentin is the softer, yellowish, inner layer. Enamel is made of a mineral called hydroxyapatite, which is a combination of calcium and phosphate. Dentin is made of a mineral called dentin, which is a combination of calcium and phosphate.
